Witnessing at the Mall

Last Thursday Craig and I met at the Galleria Mall to witness. I had an interesting conversation with Felix, a Jehovah’s Witness. Felix was not assured of his salvation. He raised the a question/objection that I had not heard before. It has made me ponder this question all week. His question was “why do you want to go to heaven anyway?” I told him that it beats the alternative of going to Hell. To that he objected and said there was a third choice, which he said was to stay on earth. This is where I think the JW’s are a bit confused. Jesus is clear that there is a separation of sheep and goats into only two groups. So the third option is not possible. I told him I enjoyed our discussion, gave him my business card and invited him to contact me so we could have some more discussion about the Bible. So far I have not heard from him, but hopefully he will contact me. So, why do I want to go to heaven? Might sound a bit cliché, but there is a song that comes to mind where the chorus is something like “no more sin, no more sorrow”. In heaven we will be in fellowship with God, worshipping him and singing praise to the King! We will be free from sin and sickness. And live forever! Finally we will be with Jesus forever. What more reasons do we need? I’d love to hear yours. Please drop me an email.

Halloween is a few weeks away. Why not order some Hey Kids tracts from Living Waters to hand out with your candy! <http://tinyurl.com/272vkj>

May I encourage you to share your faith with someone today?
