Think BIG!

"Go therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and the Son, and the Holy Spirit..." Matthew 28:19

About a month ago I noticed that there seems to be an over abundance of billboards around town with those "does advertising work" mottos on them. With the down turn in the economy business are advertising less and as their contracts run out, the bill board companies are advertising their space instead of someone else's business. That got a crazy idea planted in my head. What if we had billboards to advertise www.AfterLifeCatalog.com? There is one by my house that would be perfect. Those of you that live near me will know the spot. As you head west on Hebron Parkway and pass Marsh, there is a clear view of a billboard that is right at the corner of Hebron and Charles. Once the road turns a slight left right there, the sign actually is straight in front of the road. Great location! I envision a www.AfterLifeCatalog.com ad up there someday. So, I started calling some of the billboard companies and asking for rates. Some have asked me if I am serious. The answer is yes - when God provides the resources. This week, a humanist group in Washington D.C. made the news by advertising their "why believe in God" web site on the Washington busses and bus stops. A number of

Witnessing Tip

While you are shopping, thank the person that helped you and give them a tract so that they may be rewarded with eternal life. What better way to say thank you then to share the truth of God's Word with them! We did this at Home Depot this weekend and were able to share the Gospel four times!

people contributed to their $40,000 ad campaign. This gave me assurance that God wants us to be getting his Word out. Interestingly, the day before I saw this in the news, I finally had a return phone call from one of the bill board companies getting some rates. It is certainly within God's power to provide us the resources to do this. With God, all things are possible. If the Lord leads you to support Bezeugen, we could use the funds towards putting up billboards to promote the Gospel. I have since spoken with another ministry and learned that they have two billboards in Indiana!

What do rats have to do with the Gospel?

About a month ago I realized we have some rodents inhabiting our house with us. They are in the attic. I've put out some traps in hopes to solve the problem. About a week ago, Mande found a dead rat in the garage. Then the other night she and some friends saw a live one in the garage. So, Saturday morning when Todd and I were going to go out witnessing I asked him to first accompany me to Home Depot to pick up some traps. We got there and a nice man named Greg helped us identify some products that should do the trick. So after making a selection, I asked him, "do you believe in re-incarnation and if so, is my killing rats offensive to you". He said he was a druid. So I asked if the poison he told me to put around my shrubs was offensive to his religion. He said he was kidding about being a druid, but said he did not discuss spiritual things with people he did not know well. I asked when we could get together to get to know each other better. He was not interested. So I gave him a Gospel and we headed towards the cash register. Before we got to the register we met Burt. Burt was the Trane expert selling air conditioning and heating. He asked me if I was interested. He said they had no interest for 12 months. I used that as a spring board to talk to him about the Gospel. We had a long conversation with him before he finally revealed that he is Jewish. It is amazing how as a Jew he will admit he has not kept the ten commandments, then burden himself with another 600+ rules and think that God is going to overlook all those transgressions. It is only through repentance and faith in Jesus that sin can be forgiven. We gave him a "Science confirms the Bible" tract and he agreed to talk with us more next Saturday! At the check out I asked the cashier the same question and we got into a discussion with her and another co-worker about the Gospel. By the time we left we had shared the Gospel at least four times and used up our allotted time for witnessing. We left rejoicing that a simple thing as trying to catch a rat had led to opportunities to share the Gospel!

The deceitfulness of sin

The following is excerpted with permission from The Evidence Bible:

Two women from Southern California were about to cross the Mexican border to return to the U.S. when they saw what looked like a very small, sick animal in the ditch beside their car. As they examined it in the darkness of the night, they saw that it was a tiny Chihuahua. There they decided to take it home with them and nurse it back to health. However, because they were afraid that they were breaking the law, they put it in the trunk of their car, and drove across the border. Once they were in the U.S., they retrieved the animal and nursed it until they arrived home.

One of the women was so concerned for the ailing dog that she actually took it to bed with her, and reached out several times during the night to touch the tiny animal and reassure it that she was still present.

The dog was so sick the next morning, she decided to take it to the veterinarian. That's when she found out that the animal wasn't a tiny sick dog. It was a Mexican water rat, dying of rabies.

The world, in the blackness of its ignorance, thinks that sin is a puppy to be played with. It is the light of God's Law that enlightens the sinner to the fact that he is in bed with a deadly rat.

We were once deceived, serving divers lusts and pleasures, but now, if we are truly converted, our eyes have been open. We see sin for the sugar-coated venom that it is.

Dallas Christmas Parade

On December 6th there is a Christmas Parade in Dallas. According to an Internet site, this parade often draws over 350,000 people! What a great opportunity to hand out Gospel tracts and talk to people about the true meaning of Christmas. This year we will be handing out "Naught or Nice" Gospel tracts. We have ordered 5,000 of these tracts customized with our www.AfterLifeCatalog.com web site on the back. The tracts have a picture of Santa on the front looking at two lists (naught and nice) with the question "which list are you on"? The instruction says to place your thumb on the red "bulb" for five seconds. If you've been good the red will fade. The back has the Gospel message. This should be a lot of fun to hand out before and after the parade. With 5,000 tracts and hundreds of thousands of people, we are obviously going to need help handing these out. Please email me to let me know that you will be joining us. This is a fun event for the whole family as the kids like to watch the parade!
